LATEST FOREIGN NEWS.

The Irish Question. LONDON, February 3.—The Daily News has the following: "At a meeting of the Conservatives vesterday it was determined that while direct opposition to Mr. Gladstone's resolution should not be encouraged, an attempt should be made to amend it. Lord Beaconsfield has sanctioned this given to the South, because that section had for ten long years been deprived of fair representation.

There was some diversity of opinion at the meeting, the Government strongly opposing the course proposed by Sir Stafford Mr. Parnell will move to-day for a select commission to inquire into precedents for the Speaker's action.

Mr. Cowen will ask Mr. Gladstone for an early day on which to discuss the conduct of the Speaker. It is understood that the Government is in favor of such a proposal, thinking it due to the Speaker, and that the House should share in his responsibility.

Sir Stafford Northcote has given notice of the following amendments to Gladstone's resolution: "Toat the minister shall declare any motion urgent; that after the words 'three to one' the words 'which majority shall consist of not less than one half of the whole house,' and that for the words 'until the House shall declare the date of business no longer urgent ' be substituted the words, 'until he shall declare that the state of public business is no longer
